SAYS LAMPHERE CONFESSED ALL

St. Louis Paper Publishes Sensational Story Concerning Dead Convict.

HELPED IN GUNNESS CRIMES

ASTOUNDING REVELATIONS ARE TOLD, IT IS SAID, TO MINISTER WHO HOLDS CONFESIONAL SECRET—CONFIRMS MURDERS.

St. Louis, Jan. 13.—Ray Lamphere, who died recently in the Indiana penitentiary, at Michigan City, while serving time for setting fire to Mrs. Belle Gunness' house on a farm near Laport, according to a Post-Dispatch copyrighted story, today, confessed his share in the woman's crimes before he died. The confession was made to Rev. Dr. Schell, now pastor of the Wesleyan university at Mt. Pleasant, Ia.

Schell keeps the secret of the confessional inviolate. The Post-Dispatch says its story is secured from such authority that if the minister consents to break his silence he could verify it. According to the confession Lamphere knew of the murder of three men, Andrew Holgelein and probably Ole Budswerg and Thomas Peterson Liep while he was on the Gunness farm in 1907. Mrs. Gunness' method, according to his confession, was to chloroform her victims but if they survived the drug she killed them with an ax. Mrs. Gunness, according to his confession, gave him money frequently but believing he was not getting his share quarreled with her about it and left the house. Then with a woman companion he returned at night and chloroformed Mrs. Gunness, her three children and Jennie Olson. He and the woman expected to find $1,500, but found only $70. On leaving the house they left a candle burning and this set the house afire, consuming it and all the family.

Minister Refuses to Talk.
Mt. Pleasant, Ia., Jan. 13.—Rev. Schell refuses to discuss the alleged Lamphere confession. He declared whatever Lamphere said to him was under seal of a confessional.

London, Jan. 13.—The 7,705,717 electors in Great Britain today begin to express their political preferences and on their verdict depends the fate of the Liberal Government and other things that are regarded as of even greater importance, such as the proposed curtailment of the power of the House of Lords and the future tariff policy of the nation. The political struggle, which originated last November with the unprecedented action of the House of Lords in refusing its consent to the government's budget, is in many respects the most interesting in the parliamentary history of England.

Although this was the first polling day, the battle of the ballots will not be on in earnest until Saturday, when the voting is to take place in London. Parliamentary London is regarded as the vortex of the struggle. The metropolis sends sixty-two members to the House of Commons. As a consequence the question of the hour is, will London vote Tory or Liberal? The Tories have waged a campaign of unprecedented vigor and outside the centers of radical policies it appears to be generally felt that London will vote for tariff reform and the House of Lords.

In addition to London several other large centers are to have their elections Saturday. Among these are Manchester and Salford, which in 1906, under Winston Churchill's personal championship, gave Radicalism a tremendous start. By the first of the week it is believed that the general result will be pretty clear, though the whole of the seven and a half million electors will not finish polling until two weeks hence.

The political prophets are busy estimating the likely losses and gains, though there never was an election, it is probable, in which such estimates were more likely to be upset.

A point on which most politicians are agreed is that the Unionists stand a good show of materially improving their position. They cannot fail to have many victories, and they are likely to have few defeats. The question is whether they will make sufficient gains to place them in power. At present the state of parties is as follows: Unionists, 345; Labor members, 34; Nationalists, 53; Unionists, 168. As the Nationalists and Labor members are regarded as the allies of the Government, the Unionists, in order to obtain a bare majority, must win as many more seats as they now hold, namely, 168.

Since the injection of the Home Rule issue into the campaign Ireland regards the present election as the most important since 1886. The struggle has acted as a vigorous incentive to the cause of Ireland's independence. Ireland will cast 700,000 votes, which is only a little less than the number of Scottish electors.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 13.—Walter Whitehead, the colored, heavyweight pugilist, died at 2:15 o'clock this morning at the hospital as a result of knife wounds inflicted by Ralph Jones, also colored, in a quarrel over a game of dice about ten days ago. It was first thought that Whitehead would recover but complications set in which proved fatal. Jones was arrested immediately after Whitehead was injured.

Whitehead was well known in the copper country, he having appeared in several boxing shows here. A few months ago he was defeated by Mike Schreck in a ten-round contest in Houghton, and more recently he trained in Hancock for a bout with Al Goodale of Chicago, which bout was prevented by order of Governor Warner.

Only Two Out of Thirty-One Men Aboard Ill-Fated Steamer Are Rescued.

FIVE MORE MAY BE ALIVE

Czarina Strikes Coos Bay Bar and It Is Known at Least Twenty-four Have Perished—May Recover the Captain.

Marshfield, Ore., Jan. 13.—Of thirty-one men on the ill-fated steamer Czarina, which struck on Coos bay bar yesterday and was practically wrecked, two have been recovered and there is a possibility five more, including Captain Dugan and Harold Mills, will be recovered. Harry Kentzell, first assistant engineer, was picked up unconscious in the breakers yesterday and early today Second Assistant Engineer Robinson was washed ashore. Some hours after Kentzell was rescued he regained consciousness sufficient to state Dugan and Mills, the only passenger, had been bound to one of the masts. Robinson added that when the forward mast, to which he and five others had climbed, went over, the master, first officer, Mills, and two seamen were still alive in the after-rigging. These Robinson said were the only ones left of the ship.

OBJECT TO PUBLICITY OF THE NEW EXCISE TAX LAW

Merchants and Corporations Are Prepared to Fight Publicity Clause—May Carry Battle to the Courts of Illinois.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—A systematic campaign for the repeal of the publicity feature of the new corporation excise tax law is to be launched at a meeting to be held here tomorrow of representatives of manufacturers and commercial organizations throughout the West. The conference, which was called by the Illinois Manufacturers' association, will agree upon plans for united action in the fight against the publicity clause, to which objection has been made by corporations throughout the country.

The campaign against the publicity clause is likely to assume a legal phase, since many eminent lawyers have expressed the opinion that there are several grounds on which the new law may be attacked in the courts. The chief claim is that it is unconstitutional because it discriminates between corporations in the matter of earnings.

Both houses adjourned till next Tuesday. The primary bill of the special house committee was not submitted to the house today because of the lack of a quorum.

HEINZE TO FACE NEW INDICTMENT

Attorneys for "Montana Copper King" Move to Have Proceedings Quashed.

MAY HAVE TO STAND TRIAL

Case Against Heinze Is Similar to that for Which Morse Was Sentenced Week Ago—Sensation at Exposures Promised.

New York, Jan. 13.—If the motion made today by attorneys for P. Augustus Heinze to have the indictment against him quashed is overruled, then the Montana copper king, who, with Charles W. Morse, has been held by many as being chiefly responsible for the troubles of the banking community during the panic of 1907, will have to stand trial on charges very similar in their nature to those which landed Morse in the Atlanta penitentiary a week ago.

When the original indictments against him were wiped out last summer it looked as though Heinze was to fare better than Morse in fighting the attempt of the Federal authorities to hold him responsible for what he did while president of the Mercantile National Bank. But while the original attempts of the Government to get Heinze behind prison bars were demolished by the decision handed down by Judge Hough, a new indictment was soon returned in which Heinze was accused of misapplication of funds of the Mercantile National bank.

If the court fails to grant the motion made today to quash the indictment Heinze will be placed on trial at an early date on a charge of discounting his own note for $500,000 without any collateral behind it. But Heinze's lawyers say they can show that there was collateral behind the note to four times the amount. They also hint that if Heinze is brought to trial the defense will spring some sensational exposures involving transactions and persons high in the financial world.

PAULHAN IS IDOLIZED.

French Aviator Shatters Record for Height at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, broke all official and unofficial records for altitude in a Farman biplane yesterday. It is estimated that he rose to a height of more than four thousand feet. The instrument on Paulhan's machine registered his greatest height as 4,600 feet.

The judges' record of Paulhan's altitude, which is still to be sanctioned officially, is 1,524 meters, approximately 5,000 feet. The time in the air was fifty minutes, 46 1-5 seconds. The time of descent was seven minutes and 30 seconds.

Paulhan is the idol of the crowd. He made the greatest height record shortly after losing the speed record of the course to Glenn H. Curtiss.

DROP SENSATIONAL NAMES.

Movement Is Launched in Idaho to Change "Yellow" Names.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 13.—Such names as "Hannagan's Gulch" and "Seven Devils" will be removed from the map of Idaho, if success crowns the movement launched here today at a meeting called to organize a state geographical society. Even the historic Snake river, as famous as the State of Idaho itself, will have to wind its way from the Yellowstone to its mouth under some such prosaic cognomen as Clark or Smith.

The geographers declare that many of the geographical names now in use in Idaho are highly inappropriate, being suggestive of sensationalism and yellow-back novels, and thereby give strangers a mistaken idea of the state. A change in the objectionable names, they say, would greatly help in the movement to attract capital and settlers to Idaho.
